Share Fjord fearlessly, map 8x8 km maps to serve as the main battleground in survival rules. True to that, there are two maps to play in a game where the other is much bigger than the other. The weather and time changes in all games. The spades of the Jilly Island spades on Fjord Island vary on both maps. If the player uses the island of Geely, the spatial area will be the island in the northern part of his map. If it's a fjord without fear, the spatial area may change in every game. By October 2018, the game had reached 230 million players worldwide. As of May 30, 2018, the game was released on Steam. Unlike the steam-free free version, however, the game was released with a price tag, offering special gifts with the purchase. The game was later shut down from Steam until June 13, 2018 and reinstated until June 28, 2018. [5] Ghillie Island game map game without fear fjord fjord game Rules of Survival follows the standard form of the Battle Royale genre, where players fight to be the last person (or team) alive. Players can choose to enter the game in different modes: solo, duo, squad (four players), or Fireteam (five players). Either way, the last person or team left alive wins the game. There are two maps to play in the game: Ghillie Island (120 players, 4.8km×4.8km) and Fearless Fjord (300 players, 8km×8km). There are also various game modes such as Gold Mode, where the player can earn gold, or a diamond mode where players may earn diamonds throughout the game. The introduction of the fjord game map without fear presents a new type of game, Blitzkrieg, in which players will land only on a certain part of the map equipped with a gun, backpack and basic armor. Blitzkrieg is designed to cause players to collide head-on. The rotation begins with all the players included in one location on an island. When the countdown ends, players will parachut from plane to island, with procedurally distributed items such as weapons, armor and medical kits available to loot, and vehicles to be rode. Players can also plunder players killed for their equipment. In a third-person situation, players can switch between a third-person perspective and a first person. The game also offers a first-person situation which forces players into perspective for the first time. As game time progresses, the safe zone of the game will gradually decrease in size, where players have been caught outside There will be damage. It increases the likelihood of an encounter, thereby confronting players. Random supply drops will also occur during the game, providing random items which otherwise cannot be found during a normal game. Upon completion of each round, players will receive coins in the game based on the length of survival, the number of players killed by the player and the level of players. Coins can then be used to purchase a supply box containing cosmetic items for character or weaponization. Disputed before publishing their mobile versions, PUBG Corporation initiated legal action in the Northern District Court of California against NetEase Games in January 2018, alleging that their mobile games and rules of survival and knives out violate the copyright of PlayerUnknown Battlegrounds. PUBG Corporation's lawsuit argues that the rules of survival are copyrighted orcular work, individually and/or in conjunction with other elements of Battlegrounds, and has identified several elements that appear similar in both games. While many of these elements are common features of a Royal Battle game, PUBG Corporation argues that there are specific elements to battlegrounds that have been copied, such as chicken references to victory in the game or using cooking utensils as weapons. PUBG Corporation has also accused NetEase of cloning a battlefield ownership or below for the purpose of gaining market share before PUBG releases Battlegrounds for mobile devices. [6] PUBG Corporation seeks both monetary damages and requires NetEase to further distribute the Games. NetEase, in response to pubg corporation's request for Apple to remove the games, denied that their games violated the copyright of Battlegrounds. [7] [8] References ^ General Survival Game Review.
